

REAR FRANKS IN HIS DEN

Rear Coming to Second District to Open His Campaign.

IN HOPTOWN OF COURSE

All Politicians, Like All Roads, Lead to the Pearl City.

Judge Edward C. O'Rear will open
his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Hopkinsville, on May 1. Judge O'Rear said in making the announcement that he thought Hopkinsville the best place in the state in which to open his campaign. He has planned to make a number of speeches between May 1, and the Republican convention on July 11.

Just why the Judge thinks this
the best place is not made clear.
Hopkinsville is the best town in the state and Judge O'Rear, like Senator McCroary, is wise in starting his campaign in the "Only town on the map."

The Judge will find but few supporters here in his own party, which is made up largely of Willson Republicans, firmly committed to law and order and opposed to several things that Judge O'Rear is understood to favor. If Broncho Franks will "drop in" to see why the Judge
wants to open in this district and in Franks stronghold, maybe there will be a real entertainment pulled off on May 1.

GOV. COX IN TOWN

Republican Aspirant Pays
Hopkinsville a Visit
Thursday.

Lieut. Gov. W. H. Cox of Maysfield, one of the three Republican candidates for Governor, was in the city Thursday in the interest of his candidacy. Gov. Cox is a courteous, able gentleman and has maintained most pleasant relations with the Democratic Senate over which he presided as Lieutenant Governor.

During the many instances when he has been the acting governor he has conducted himself so as to command
the greatest respect of all, including his political opponents. Gov. Cox is an outspoken advocate of law and order and it is understood is Gov.
Willson's choice for Governor. He has a strong following here. E. T.
Franks will be the contending candidate. Judge O'Rear's following is small, as his views on night riding
are unpopular among Hopkinsville Republicans.

ville to feel that this club is part her own. If every one in town will take up the work with us, we can accomplish great things. We present this as an earnest solicitation
for your attendance Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the courthouse.

CITIZEN OF CHRISTIAN

For Many Years Dies in Guthrie.

Creed Haskins, for a number of
years a citizen of Christian county,
died in Guthrie Wednesday night,
aged about eighty years. Mr. Haskins operated a blacksmith shop at Bennettstown for some years, also at Howell. From the latter place he moved to Montgomery county, Tennessee. Later he moved to Guthrie.
He is survived by his wife, who is a sister of Mrs. G. W. Southall, of this city, and five children. The interment took place in Clarksville.

Baby's Sad Fate.

The baby girl of E. M. Snyder, Louisville, hanged herself while trying to scale a board fence in the back yard. She was found with her neck between two pickets, her feet a few inches from the ground.

Refrigerators that Pay for Themselves

There are three points to study in buying a refrigerator

First — Will it refrigerate, will it keep things cool and keep them

Second—Will it do this with the least possible consumption of ice?

Third— Has it a finish and neat appearance such as you would want?

Not a Day in Bed.

Gramling, S. C.—In a letter from Gramling, Mrs. Lula Walden says:
I was so weak before I began taking Cardui, that it tired me to walk just a little. Since taking it, I do all the housework for my family of nine,
and have not been in bed a day.
Cardui is the greatest remedy for women on earth." Weak women need Cardui. It is the ideal woman's tonic, because it is especially adapted for women's needs. It relieves backache, headache, dragging feelings—
and other female misery. Try Cardui. A few doses will show you what it can do for you. It may be just what you want.

Exaggerated Perhaps.

Elbert Hubbard, at the Portland
Press Club's reception in his honor
last month, advocated good roads
wittily.

"In France" he said, "the remotest mountain villages are connected with Paris by white, firm roads
equal to those of our parks and race
courses. But here—especially here in Oregon!

"I motored yesterday afternoon
out from Portland to Estacada and Molalla, returned by way of Clackamas. The roads were awful.

"What awful roads you've got here," I said to a Molalla farmer.

"Waal, yes," the farmer agreed.
'A mule was drowned yesterday in the road by my orchard."

THREW A FITAnd the Madisonville Police Thought He Was Drunk.

After he had recovered from an epileptic fit which the police mistook
for drunkenness, a negro barber of Hopkinsville told Judge Wilson that a $50 diamond pin and $4 in silver
had been stolen from him, says the Hustler.

Sunday afternoon a negro was taken off of the "Dixie Flyer, Jr.," apparently dead drunk. Policemen Graddy and Powers loaded him onto an express truck and hauled him to the lockup, where, with the aid of the other two "cops," he was taken
and placed in a cell and the charge
of drunkenness was set against him.

Two hours or so later he recovered
consciousness, discovered the absence
of his diamond and money and wanted to know why he had been locked up.

The negro was released after he told a straight story. He said he had fits often and always had them
when he became "scared." He said that when the train came out of Hecla two negroes engaged in a fight and with him he was seized with a fit. He said he had not touched a drop of liquor.

Considerable excitement was created on the streets on the quiet and peaceful Easter Sunday when the policemen were seen pulling up the street an express on which there was a man apparently dead.

FOUND IN THE PICTURES

"You don't want to stay for the pictures, do you?" asked Laura in the tone of one who expects the answer to be "No."

Beth blushed. She took a childish delight in motion pictures, but from the chatter about her, she gathered that it was considered childish to sit through the whole performance. Her cousin Laura seemed to regard the taste for vaudeville itself rather indicative of elementary development.

"Do you mind?" Beth asked timidly.

"There's fire department pictures."
With a shrug of her shoulder, her cousin settled back in the seat as the lights went out and the first picture was thrown on the screen. The property man and his fellows on the stage supplied the clanging of the bells and the screech of the whistles and to Beth it was all very real. Then the street with its engines vanished from
the screen to be replaced by a contrasting picture of three firemen sitting in quarters engaged in a game of cards. Their faces were large enough to show the play of expression and the audience shrieked at the pantomime
humor.

But Beth had leaned forward and
was looking eagerly at the screen.
Laura tugged at her skirt but the girl did not realize it. There upon the screen was Thad Burnham. She was sure of it. The picture changed again
and she sank back into her seat quivering in every muscle.

Rapidly she explained to Laura
how Thad had gone away from home,
how his letters had stopped and his mother could find no trace of him.
"His mother's heart is breaking for him," she declared. "I must find him
and tell him to write home."

She left her seat and with trembling
limbs started up the aisle, Laura following her country cousin curiously.
An usher directed her to the balcony
where the machine was operated, and she waited until the operator had finished.

He could give her little information
other than to furnish her with the address of the firm which had taken the pictures. She could scarcely wait until the next morning to continue her search, and she started immediately
after breakfast with a male cousin as an escort.

The manager was courteous and seemed to take an interest in her quest. The pictures had been made in town, he explained, and he gave her
the number and address of the engine company. It was far uptown but she could not rest and in a short time she stood in front of the tiny desk beside the glittering engine.

"Is Mr. Burnham a fireman here?"
she asked with trembling voice.

"Tommy Burnham is with seven truck," he explained.

"I am looking for Thadwick Burnham," she explained. "He was photographed here for some motion pictures."

"Wickes, Roe and Casey posed for that picture," he declared. "You mean
this?"

He took down from the wall a small
framed photograph, evidently an enlargement of the picture film.

"That's Thad," she cried. "I'm sure
of it."

"Call Roe down," commanded a voice behind her. The fireman sprang to salute and Beth turned to face a kindly faced man with gold instead
of silver buttons and crossed trumpets
on his cap front.

"Stand where you will be in the light," directed the newcomer, as he stepped into the background. Wonder-ingly she obeyed his directions as in answer to the call a man came sliding down the brass pole.

Before she could speak he had turned around and came toward her.

"Hello, Beth," he cried. "Where did you come from?"

"What is your name?" demanded the battalion chief. Instinctively the man's hand went to salute, and he gave a puzzled laugh.

"It's Burnham," he said, "yet I know I'm called Roe. What's the matter?"

"You remember the Jane street fire
in the shop where you worked?" suggested the chief. Thad nodded. "But you forget that in jumping to the net
you fell short and struck on the head.
When you came out of the hospital, you had forgotten whom you were."

"I remember now," Thad exclaimed.
"The boys were interested in me and kept me going until I could get in the department. You gave me Richard Roe for a name, eh?"

"I saw you in the picture at the theater," Beth explained. "I knew it was you."

"Which is more than I did," he laughed. "I've been some one else for nearly a year now. Is mother—"

Beth nodded as his voice faltered.
"She is alive," she assured, "but very lonely. She thinks your are dead."

The chief stepped forward. "I'm going up to see the foreman," he said
hastily. "Put in your application for leave and I'll see that headquarters
grants it."

He stamped up the stairs, and Thad
turned to Beth. "And you?" he asked
"Have you—"

"I've been waiting, too," she assured
as her hand stole into his.

"We can have a pretty good honeymoon in 30 days," smiled Thad. "We'll send the picture men some of the cake."

"We must," she agreed, as he kissed
her right before the man on watch. "I found you in the picture."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is no "cure-all" humbug, but is made for just one purpose—to cure the weaknesses, painful disorders and irregularities of the womanly organism. It is

THE ONE REMEDY for these ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and is carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath—thus taking its users into their full confidence, and warranting physicians in prescribing it in their worst cases, which they do very largely.

It is foolish as well as dangerous to take medicine the composition of which you know nothing. Therefore, don't let a dishonest druggist prevail on you to accept a secret nostrum for this professionally approved medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. Every ingredient in its make-up has the strongest indorsement of the leading medical men of all the several schools of practice. Send postal card request for free Booklet of same.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free.

In addition to this free advice, Dr. Pierce will send a fine French cloth-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," to any woman who will send 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They work in harmony with "Favorite Prescription" when needed as a gentle laxative. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

REPETITION

By HELEN WELBORN STEDMAN

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Old gentleman Stufins looked prosperous mentally, physically and sartorially. Madam Stufins reflected the prosperous light that shone from her corpulent mate. Adjectives slightly modified in the negative quantity might be used in describing their one offspring, Maria Stufins, known as Marie, with a few adjectives of quality added to denote fluffy lightness of hair, pinky whiteness and eyes almost too blue. Lovers there were none. In vain they oamped in a palatial home in their own town or stayed in fashionable hotels of the three border states. In New York or San Francisco, New Orleans or Chicago it was the same. In vain they were whisked by six-cylinder, noiseless motors from watering place to watering place. In fact, the Stufinses seemed to be on a tour to prove American man wants more than money when taking a bride. And Father Stufins, mentally and orally—to his spouse—determined that only America could turn the trio into a quartet.

The room was well but plainly furnished after the fashion of hotels. It had been a whim of this prosperous two to have one room as they found it, and it was there they spent many happy hours together talking over checks to be sent to charities and little helps here and there among acquaintances of days when they, too, struggled for bread.

"I sometimes wonder why Marie is without admirers and lovers, Jake. She is so good and kind and proficient in so many ways, and not a homely girl."

"She has not the gift of gab and entrancing shift of glancing which seem to please mankind, both young and old."

"Marie looks like me," said the wife, glancing into the mirror.

"That's a fact well known, Jane."

"Why did you love me?" she asked, rather dreamily.

The great man smiled as he rose and looked out of the window, musingly.

"Jennie," he said, a twinkle in his eye, "I was acquainted with you ten years before I knew you. Then I was suddenly introduced. You remember the ride you took one dark, cold night to warn Jonesville of intended burglary? You had heard a scrap of conversation between three suspicious chaps in a railroad station, and thought it meant robbery, and thinking, acted."

He stopped. Mrs. Jacob Stufins stood still in the center of the room, a slow, reminiscent light passing over the too full face and into the slightly faded eyes.

"Jennie," he continued, and the husband moved involuntarily toward her, "when I heard of that foaming horse and plucky girl who saved the bank of Jonesville I thought for the first time of you. Then came the reception given by the bankers' wives. You were a little beyond the model 36. You wore pale blue with white, soft fluffy lace, and your eyes shone. Jove, Jennie, how they shone!" He looked at her tenderly as he drew her toward him. "And, Jennie, I am thankful for that ride."

Marie Stufins galloped along the soft, sandy road, sniffing the sweet scent of the softly murmuring pines, her groom galloping at a precise correctness of distance behind her. A sound floated through the pines that was not a sigh of the trees, which, as she galloped on, reached her ears in louder and louder strains. It was a cry, a scream of anguish. Marie halted, listened, waved her whip to the groom and sent her horse dashing on through an opening in the clearing toward the sound.

She reached the spot, jumped from her horse, ran into the cabin, pushed the screaming pickaninnies away, gently thrust the weeping colored woman aside and stooped over the injured dandy.

"Water!" cried the girl to the groom near her; "handkerchief, towel, anything to tear!" Between wails and moans and splashes of blood she tied the knot that stopped the flow of blood.

Two great, swarthy darkies stood in the doorway, their faces pale with fright, their forms stationary with wonderment. Marie Stufins faced the sligher of the two.

"Do you know Hotel Beechwood?" He nodded.

"Take my hat and gloves, ride as for your life, ask for the young—no, old—doctor, leave the horse, come in auto and come quickly. Understand?"

Turning to the groom, she said, "Now, General, we must work. Mammy, stop crying and tear that underwear into strips. Children, stop crying—stop, I say!" And she gave a loud clap of her hands which shut mouths and lachrymal glands instantaneously. "Now to work."

A colored horseman dashed up the driveway past the astonished guests and halted in front of the hotel steps.

"The missus' hat and gloves," he shouted. "A man is killed. She shuah wants the doctah, the ole doctah, to come in auto; me too, and you, all be quick!"

The old doctor standing in the door of the hot, stuffy, ill-smelling, took in the situation at a glance. The closed eyes of the form on the bed, the arm where blood had stopped its flow, the mammy weeping softly, the children huddled together, the groom standing helplessly at the foot of the bed, and the fair head of the girl bent over to catch the faint beat of the over-worked heart.

The young doctor following saw all this and more.

Two hours later they stood by the automobile. In the cabin all was quiet save the slow, regular breathing of the worn form on the bed. Outside the pickaninnies stood, their eyes shining with love and awe at the lady. The woodmen stood, hats off. Mammy had followed the lady down the little path and stood looking up at the fair face that had not a trace of color, only the halo of a wealth of hair.

"Honey, youall shuah is—" The lips trembled and the eyes filled with tears.

The girl laid her hands on the woman's shoulders.

"I am glad I could help you, mammy. Mother will come this afternoon to bring you and the children all you need until pap is well again. Good-by now."

The old doctor murmured something about nobleness, as his eyes were veiled by a suspicious moisture.

The young doctor mentally registered, "By heaven, what a girl! And you, Morris Barlow, have lived in the hotel with her a month and never knew."

The lights blazed at Hotel Beechwood. The dance music filled not only the dancers, but those who listened with tingles and thrills.

A stout lady in velvet and diamonds and a very stout man in diamonds and black walked majestically across the rotunda and down the steps to the Japanese garden.

"Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stufins, many times millionaires," whispered a long stayer to a newcomer.

They stopped among the palms at the railing to watch the dancers below. One couple seemed to hold their attention, and as they stood watching the light in their eyes deepened and softened and glowed, and a great fat hand stole under the filmy scarf of the transmuted Mrs. Stufins who, with a little smile slipped her hand into the great palm.

"Jennie," whispered the great man, leaning over her, "Dr. Barlow loves Marie."

The soft, tender eyes looked for a moment into those of her great lover's as she whispered, softly:

"And, Jacob, Marie loves Dr. Barlow."

CREAM OF NEWS COMPILED AND COLLECTED FROM ALL SOURCES

A bill has been introduced providing for the coinage of a 2 1/2 cent piece.

Senator O'Gorman, of New York, has six grown daughters and one son, a small boy.

Maj. John C. Davidson was unanimously elected Colonel of the First Kentucky Regiment, which is being reorganized.

Representative Tidwell has introduced a bill making it a misdemeanor for a woman to wear a hobble skirt in Florida.

W. F. Blair, for 12 years representative from Fayette county, is a candidate for Railroad Commissioner in the Second District.

Three of the states have newspaper men for Governors. They are: Maine; Colquitt, of Texas; and Osborn, of Michigan.

The courts have upheld Iowa's new liquor law providing that no city can have more saloons than one to every 1,000 population.

The Portuguese mail steamer Lusitania was wrecked near the Cape of Good Hope. Eight persons were drowned during the transfer of the 500 passengers.

Henry Lawrence, who is himself a candidate for state Senator, has been placed in charge of the primary election and has opened headquarters at the Louisville Hotel until after July 1.

It is claimed that a fire at Evansville the other night destroyed the bed that Washington slept on the night after he crossed the Delaware, an heirloom in the family of E. L. Hutchinson. The row boat that he stood up in to have his picture taken has been lost sight of.

Mayor A. V. Fawcett, of Tacoma, Wash., was recalled Tuesday. W. W. Seymour is the new Mayor-elect. He will take office at the end of ten days. Seymour polled 11,246 votes against 10,394 for Fawcett. An election will be held May 2 to vote on the recall of four city commissioners.

A'Rearing About O'Rear.

The Maysville Public Ledger, a Republican newspaper, is "throwing the looks" into Judge O'Rear. It accuses the Louisville Post of trying to foist O'Rear upon the Republican party as the gubernatorial nominee, and pays its respects to O'Rear and the Post in rather vigorous style. It quotes what the Post says about O'Rear's coming out "clearly for the county unit bill, while Gov. Cox and E. T. Franks ignore the question altogether," and then the Ledger declares that Cox "ignores no public question, but simply points to his record in the senate at Frankfort and to all his acts while in the executive chair to repudiate the aspersion that he is unfriendly to the temperance cause and to law and order." The Ledger then asks: "Can Judge O'Rear say as much?"

The Ledger then proceeds to go after the Mt. Sterling jurist in this fashion:

No man has ever used stronger language to tear down the fabric of law and order in Kentucky than this eminent jurist. The Public Ledger hasn't the honor of O'Rear's acquaintance, and has never seen him, yet we've read with indignation and just horror of his violent and incendiary words during the blighting night rider tobacco war days.

Think of such men in the Governor's chair.

Better a thousand times Governor Cox, E. T. Franks or McCreary than such as he.

Governor Cox has been tried at Frankfort and has served as governor of Kentucky long enough during the absence of Governor Willson to demonstrate to any citizen of the state that he is safe and sane on all public policies. Never violent, never rough or unreasonable, he is open to audience at all times and to all men. As an honest, open, fearless and Democratic citizen W. H. Cox is a Kentuckian of whom every Kentuckian should be proud, and should he win or lose in the race for governor he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he never endeavored to inflame the public mind by the incendiary utterances of the political demagogues who choose critical times to ride into office under the garb of false patriotism.

Let the Louisville Post howl, let the heathen rage, but no man will be fooled by such blatant dictation, and the sober, unpurchasable and patriotic lovers of law, order and popular government can be depended on to give Kentucky a governor not swayed by a red flag.

The O'Rear tide has ebbed to the vast sea of nothingness from whence it came, and the public can now realize what a grievous mistake, to put it mildly, the nomination of the Judge would prove. The public Ledger hesitates to say one unkind word against Judge O'Rear. The judge's own utterances during the tobacco war and on other occasions are enough to disqualify him from filling the executive chair of Kentucky. Every lover of law and order, every citizen who hates murderous partisanship, and every Kentuckian who reveres the sacred traditions of our history should rise up horrified and protest against Judge E. C. O'Rear's candidacy for governor.

If O'Rear is named by the Republicans McCreary will sweep the state by 25,000 votes.

Governor Willson too truly said that O'Rear's election would be a calamity to Kentucky.

Bob Taylor's Tribute.

Senator Bob Taylor created a tumult in his address at the opening of the big D. A. R. annual convention, but it was a tumult of thunderous applause. The senator paid glowing tribute to the heroism of women of the revolution, but refused to place their glories above those of the women of the southland. It was when he touched on the latter feature that the delegates from all over Dixie rose in unison and gave tremendous applause to the sentiment of the speaker.

Senator Taylor, in his tribute said: "Let others sing of Joan of Arc and Sceptered Elizabeth, and that long list of great women whose names glorify the history of the old world, but to me the women of the revolution outshine them all. They gave more and sacrificed more for humanity and happiness of generations to come than any other race of women who ever lived in the world." Here Senator Taylor paused impressively, and added "Except the women of the South in the late civil war."

Vote-Buying in Kentucky.

Hundreds of persons are expected to be disfranchised as a result of an investigation into vote-buying in Lawrence county by the grand jury. The investigation was ordered by Circuit Judge Hannah today.

This is the tenth county in Kentucky in which such an investigation has been ordered in the last month.

Shame to Take The Money.

The County Clerk of Warren county refused to issue a marriage license to John Poteet, aged 55, and Bessie Ray, only 19. The old man was only slightly delayed, as he went to Mitchellville, Tenn., and made the girl his bride. They are prominent people of Edmonson county.

Mrs. Bennett Returns.

Mrs. Caswell Bennett, who has been the guest of Governor George W. Donaghey, of Arkansas, is now in St. Louis. Miss Virginia Bennett will remain several weeks longer. Later Mrs. Bennett and Miss Bennett will return to Kentucky and be the guests of friends in Louisville.—Louisville Herald.

Diamond Dope.

The following men will report to Paducah for trials next Monday:

Dartie, third baseman.
Cahill, shortstop.
Hutchinson, second baseman.
Styles, a coachman.
Stadford, infielder.
Knapp, outfielder.
Barringer, outfielder.
Fite, catcher.
Carroll, outfielder.
Lowery, first baseman.
Cox, first baseman.
Goff, catcher.
Linson, pitcher.
Crane, pitcher.
Lamb, pitcher.
Floyd, pitcher.
Vatters, pitcher.
Lockler, pitcher.
Samson, outfielder.

Sammy DeHaven, Manager of the Alices, has reported to Vincennes, and so far has the following players: Jansen, Hurst, Hirschbuhl, Harlan Johnson, Kilgore, Cavanny, C. O'Mace, Bohland, McCarthy, Sholters and Arlen. Only two of the above, besides Manager DeHaven, were with Vincennes last season. Roy Johnson, Carl Johnson, Morris Johnson, Hixenbaugh and Jones will be with them this season.

Fulton Already Winner.

The Fulton Leader has already won the 1911 pennant for Fulton, and closes the baseball dope every day with the statement "Fulton is going to win the 1911 Kitty league pennant." Manager Langden with nine players is on the Fulton diamond already, and this inspires confidence into the camp of the state liners. The lineup is:

Langden, c.; Newman, lb.; McMillan, 2b.; White, 3b.; Heckart, cf.; Main, if.; Williams, p.; Arrowsmith, p.; Stout, p.; Williams is a southpaw. All these players are from Danville and played in the "Three I" league last season.

Manager Nairn writes us follows: I have sent out all the tickets to the men and those who are not here will be here by Saturday. I have signed a pitcher named Bradshaw, from the Rock Island Club. He is here. He is a "dandy." I have just signed a catcher, who has been with Ft. Wayne. He is a good one. If we don't have a good team I don't know one. This is the best team I ever saw in this class of ball. I have heard from all the boys and those that we want will be here. I have released those that we will not be able to use.

Z-ke May Sign.

In all probability Zeke Taylor, the hardest hitter in the Kitty last year, will sign with Paducah this season. In a consultation with Chief Lloyd Tuesday afternoon, Taylor said he would write the Richmond (Blue-grass league) management in an endeavor to get his release. Lloyd will write also. Shaul Zeke get his liberty and sign with the Indians, he would be a valuable asset to the hitting department.—Paducah News-Democrat.

"Nig" Langsdon, that Danville, Ill., player about whom Cairo and Fulton, the two late Kitty additions, are quarrelling, was formerly a Kitten and is a personal friend of Manager Harry Lloyd. Langsdon, back in the old Kitty days, managed the Mattoon, Ill., Team.—Paducah News-Democrat.

Erne Jones, who started the season with Vincennes last year and played brilliantly for several months but late in the season suffered a slump in both batting and fielding, has been signed by Hopkinsville for a tryout.—Paducah Sun.

Dr. Tandy Returns.

Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Tandy returned yesterday from a three weeks' visit to Texas. Dr. Tandy, who is an officer in the State Guards, was detailed to attend the maneuvers at San Antonio and Mrs. Tandy visited relatives at Houston. Dr. Tandy will be at his office to-day.

QUIET DAYS

"Marjory, I love you—but if you ever mention 'rest cure' to me again our friendship will be a thing of the past!"

"Why this terrible threat?" asked Marjory. "I merely said—"

"If you'll listen to my experiences you'll understand. Don't interrupt until I finish."

"Our family physician said, 'That child is completely run down and she must have a complete rest at once.' I am 'that child.' Dressmakers, hat-makers, hairmakers, shoemakers, dances, parties, luncheons, dinners and theaters had combined to do the mischief."

"My Aunt Susy lives in a two by four town where everything is supposed to be quiet and restful. I wrote to her asking if I might rest under her peaceful roof. She answered, 'Of course, come at once. I'm lonesome for you and I promise to provide you with a genuine rest cure.'"

"The day after the arrival of this letter I and my new seal suitcase started for Aunt Susy's at Johnson's Junction."

"Marjory, imagine my horrors on discovering, seated next me on the train, none other than the impossible, talkative Joe Simpson. He talked to me and at me until I was dizzy. I couldn't even get in a word of one syllable to break up his monologue."

"Auntie met us at the station on our arrival. In about two minutes she discovered that Joe Simpson's father was an old sweetheart of hers. My hospitable aunt invited him to dine with us that evening. Promptly he accepted, came and remained until half past 11 o'clock. It was cruelly to animals."

"Ob, Marjory, I had such beautiful anticipations of my first evening at auntie's—visions of sitting on the floor, with great logs blazing, Harold's box of candy by my side and my braids hanging down my back! Instead, I found myself entertaining the uninteresting, ever talking Joe Simpson!"

"When he left auntie said, 'You do look fagged out, child. Go to bed this instant. I gave you the room upstairs, so you won't hear a sound. Sleep as long as you like tomorrow. I'll send your breakfast to your room.' Auntie is a dear."

"I did have a regular Rip Van Winkle sleep—that is, while it lasted. But at six o'clock the next morning I was awakened by a rapping and tapping and pounding on the roof above my head."

"I lay fascinated by the rhythm of the taps until seven o'clock. Then, in desperation, I dressed and descended. Auntie was distressed that my first night's sleep had been broken off by the man who came to repair the roof. It seems that man comes from the next town only twice a year, so when he does come the townfolk consider it a great honor if he condescends to repair their roofs. And such a noise as he made!"

"After eating the best waffles in the world, I felt somewhat consoled. But my consolation was short lived. For my Aunt Martha is a human question mark. I was just preparing to answer a thousand questions about the folks at home when in rushed the woman who lives next door, crying, 'Quick! Come! My baby is in convulsions!'"

"We ran for doctors, nurses, medicines, hot water bags and other persons and things. The next 12 hours we devoted to nursing the baby and comforting the distracted mother. The baby recovered, I am thankful to say. Probably it will never know what a disturbance it caused. But I will never forget that time."

"That night I had a splendid rest—slept until ten o'clock in the morning. Then I woke up to find that our household was minus Mary Duggan."

"Mary Duggan is auntie's maid. Mary Duggan's sister is Lizzie Duggan. Lizzie Duggan took suddenly ill. She telegraphed for Mary to come to her at once. So it was up to auntie and me to wash dishes, cook, make beds, dust, bake, mend, and do all those other things."

"Then Aunt Susy's furnace had to set up. We couldn't have a fire until the fire pot was repaired. We huddled ourselves over one little oil stove that we borrowed from a neighbor. Did you ever try keeping warm over a bushful and backward oil stove? We almost froze to death."

"Then the minister's wife had to give a tea. We couldn't possibly send regrets to the minister's wife, so we went. She made us examine her plush albums containing the family portraits from antediluvian times. I could have screamed."

"The next evening a Mr. Dobbing and his three maiden sisters insisted upon calling on us. Auntie wasn't to blame—the couldn't ward them off."

"The next day Aunt Susy's church club met at her house. Mary Duggan being absent, auntie and I prepared and served luncheon for 14."

"The day after the luncheon, exhausted, I bade Aunt Susy and Johnson's Junction good by. I went home to rest. St. Simon Stylites, who stood on one foot for 39 years, was not half so tired as I was the day I arrived home."

"Now, Marjory, you won't ever suggest 'rest cure' to me again, will you dear?" demanded Dorothy.

"Never," promised Marjory, sympathetically.

Osteopaths to Meet.

Here and There

Miss Dora Smith, superintendent of schools of Fulton county for 12 years, has resigned.

R. L. Westover, publisher of The News, at Williamstown, Ky., won the first prize of a $1,000 offered by the Cincinnati Enquirer Co. for the largest number of new subscriptions to the Weekly Enquirer taken the past six months. The News sent in 3,045 subscriptions.

Heart is Best Guide.

The man who offers sympathy to a neighbor and who comforts him in time of trouble can afford to run the risk of being accused of not minding his own business. An act of genuine kindness is readily distinguished from intermeddling. The heart is sometimes a better guide for action than the head.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Grantville, Vt. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Grantville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

COMMITTEE FOR CORN CONTEST

Appointed at a Meeting of The Subscribers to the Prize Fund.

MISS WEST CHAIRMAN.

Public Lecture Will be Delivered by W. H. Strange
Tuesday.

The subscribers to the corn and chrysanthemum contests met at the city court room yesterday morning and after an interesting discussion organized an executive committee to conduct the two contests.

Miss Jennie West, County Superintendent, is chairman of the Committees severally and jointly.

For the Corn Contest John C. Duffy, G. L. Campbell and J. E. Morey were named. For the Chrysanthemum Contest Dr. F. M. Stites, W. F. Snyder and T. L. Metcalfe.

The two committees compose the executive committee of seven, including the chairman, which will arrange the programs for all meetings to be held and prepare the list of prizes to be offered.

A number of special prizes have been offered, including a Jersey calf by Tobe Morris, a pair of Rhode Island chickens by G. L. Campbell, $5 in photographs by W. R. Bowles and a gold ring by Geo. Kolb. These will probably be used as fourth prizes, the cash subscribed providing for three prizes in each of the four branches of each contest.

The first duty of the Executive Committee will be to prepare a program for the meeting next Tuesday when W. H. Strange will deliver a lecture on Corn Culture at the Court house. The hour fixed at 10:30 a. m. will likely be changed to 1:30 p. m.

Rosy as a Girl.

Summit, N. C.—In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Church, the notary public says: "My wife had been ailing for nearly 12 years, from female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her back and side. We tried physicians for years, without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl." Cardui, as a tonic for women, has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is the ideal tonic for young and old. Try it. At druggists.

ACREE---MEACHAM

Young Teacher Wedded to S. Christian Farmer.

Mr. V. M. Acree, a well known farmer of the Bell neighborhood, and Miss Nellie Virginia Meacham, of this city, were united in marriage in Clarksville Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Crouch, performed the ceremony at the Arlington hotel. The couple, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Will Ledford and Mr. W. W. Barbee, of the Oak Grove neighborhood, and Miss Otey Bartley, of this city, drove over to Clarksville, reaching that place about 7 o'clock, and the nuptial knot was tied shortly after their arrival. The bridal party, after partaking of supper, returned to South Christian. It was not an elopement.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. W. F. Meacham, of this city, and is a very popular young teacher, quite pretty, and possesses varied accomplishments. After her graduation she taught school at Dixon, Clay and other points, but during the past session she taught the Bell school.

Mr. Acree came to this county several years ago from Tennessee and is a prosperous farmer.

Fleming---Raubold.

Sam Fleming, the well known L. & N. engineer, in charge of the switch engine in the yards here, and Miss Pauline Raubold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Raubold, were married in Louisville Thursday afternoon.

THE LATEST STYLE from NEW YORK

Model from Sattler's
New York City.

Instructions: (See Note) The hair is marcelled, dressed with a slight part, soft toward the face. The rest of the hair is taken up in center of the head and used as a foundation to which is added Grecian Puffs. An Aphrodite Coil is placed like a ribbon around the puffs. The ends of the coil are used to finish the dressing, being made into two large loops and fastened with hair ornaments as shown by the back view.

Try Herpicide Aseptic Tar Soap For The Shampoo. There is Nothing Better.

To Know the Real Comfort of Hair Dressing, Ladies Should Use the Herpicide Comb, No. 999.

Ask Your Druggist About Both.

Note The Herpicide Co., have arranged with the leading hairdressers of the Country to furnish models with description of the latest and most approved modes in hairdressing. Ladies who adopt these styles will enjoy the satisfaction of being in perfect vogue.

Every lady is interested in hair dressing styles because a becoming and effective coiffure adds much to her personal appearance. Individual attractiveness is very largely dependent upon the hair. Therefore, we say "Take care of your hair." A few moments each day devoted to brushing the hair, massaging the scalp and an application of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE from two to four times each week will accomplish truly wonderful results.

HERPICIDE

IS A MOST EXQUISITE AND DELIGHTFUL HAIRDRESSING

Hair that is neglected shows it and quickly. It is uneven, dull, brittle and the scalp usually infested with dandruff. Hair in this condition is unsightly and cannot be made to look neat, no matter how carefully arranged. The above simple suggestions relative to the care of the hair will, if followed, correct all of this.

The hair takes on an astonishing luxuriance and beauty which are always associated with the use of this wonderful scalp prophylactic. With the removal of dandruff and the restoration of a healthy condition of the hair and scalp, the hair ceases to fall out and nature asserts herself in a manner which is almost at once noticeable. Try it and see.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE destroys the invisible microbic growth which causes dandruff, and keeps the head clean.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE was the first preparation made to kill the dandruff germ. It has for years been known as "The Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer."

Any preparation for which the same claims are made is trading upon the reputation of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE and is an imitation. Don't take something "just as good." Insist on having genuine HERPICIDE.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO DOG

New York Florist Closed Shop and Gave Murdered St. Bernard a Real Funeral.

Seldom do we find a man who has the courage to do what Ibsen's Hedda Gabler called "a really beautiful thing." This is quite a prosaic world, after all, and folk look askance at the man who will do a deed of sentiment in broad daylight. But such things do happen, just once in a while. The other day a New York florist closed all his shops and held a funeral for his loved St. Bernard dog, whom a fiend had poisoned. Regular services were held at the master's house, and the minister who read the service delivered a touching eulogy on dogs and on Leo in particular. The dog's body was borne to the grave by four children who had known Leo since he was a puppy. Around the grave the mourners sang a hymn. Was the minister ashamed to officiate at a dog's funeral? Not a bit. "It seems to me eminently proper and fitting," the minister said; "I knew Leo as a friend, and as a friend I mourn his tragic taking off. Of all earthly creatures none is so faithful as one's dog." A highly beautiful sentiment!—Denver Times.

HIS MONEY OR HIS WIFE.

Now and then John B. Stanchfield tells a new story. The other night he was a guest at the dinner of the sheriff's panel, always the most ornate dinner of the year. It costs $40,000, and, to dispose of this fund the dinner master provided solid silver souvenirs, in addition to the barrels of vintage champagne. Mr. Stanchfield told this yarn to illustrate a point:

"A very wealthy man got a note from the Black Hand," said he. "It read as follows: 'If you do not send us $100,000 we will kill your wife.' The millionaire replied at once to the address given: 'Nothing doing on the money; but I'd like to hear from you further. Your proposition interests me.'—Cincinnati Times-Star.

HE HAD FORGOTTEN.

The absent mindedness of a clergyman, temporarily in charge of a leading Belfast church, was responsible for a singular dilemma in which a bridal party was placed the other day. The ceremony was fixed for nine o'clock a. m., and punctually at that hour the bridal party arrived, the church, one of the most spacious in Ireland, being by this time filled with relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The sexton was in attendance, but no clergyman. After a lapse of an hour, anxiety gradually gave way to a feeling of alarm. The bride swooned twice. Eventually a hurried telephone call brought the truant clergyman, who, almost two hours late, was profuse in his apologies for his absent mindedness.

REVIVING HER.

"Mabel has fainted," cried the captain of the girls' basket ball team.

"Steady, girls," said the trainer. "Give her a little air, and pass the fudge."

VALUABLE MAN.

"They tell me Gubbins thinks everything of that Swiss chauffeur of his."

"Yes. There isn't an auto horn made that can match his yodling."

HOW TO COOK RICE

CREOLE MAMMY'S METHOD MAKES PROCESS EASY.

Takes Place of Potatoes, is Easier to Prepare and Four Times as Nutritious—Should Never Be Mushy.

If you want to know the right way to cook rice read how an old creole mammy does it. After you have learned to cook rice you will then be able to utilize and serve it in many different ways. Your household will like it and you will serve it often. Instead of bread, with all gravies, especially the brown meat gravies, and with peas and beans. Used with gravy it will take the place of potatoes, and is much easier to prepare, easier to digest, and four times as nutritious. It should be served dry, steaming hot, not mushy, and every grain separate. One cupful of rice well washed, three cupfuls of boiling water, one scant teaspoonful of salt, and a saltspoonful of lard. Wash the rice through at least six waters, or until all cloudiness is removed. Drain thoroughly. Bring to the boiling point three brimful cupfuls of water, add the salt, and the tiny bit of lard. When the water is boiling briskly add the rice gradually, so as not to stop the boiling. Don't stir. The grains should be kept moving by the boiling water. It will take about 15 minutes for the rice fully to absorb the water. During this time keep the cover on, but slightly pushed to one side. At the end of the 15 minutes the grains should be soft, not the least gritty. Remove the cover and at the same heat let dry out for five minutes. If cooking on a gas stove, at the end of the five minutes lower the gas and let the drying out process continue for 20 to 30 minutes longer. If cooking on a wood or coal stove, at the end of five minutes place the cooked rice on the back of the stove or in the oven to dry out. By cooking rice in this manner every bit of nutriment is retained at a minimum cost of effort. Each grain will be puffed to almost three times the size of the uncooked grain. Always cook rice with a lid over the flame. On gas stoves, an asbestos lid is recommended. Never stir rice while cooking. A sharp knife passed around the side of the pot after the drying process starts is recommended. If lard is objected to it may be omitted; it is supposed to lessen the danger of burning, to prevent the water boiling over, and lends a brilliancy to the cooked rice.

In Place of Soap.

Persons whose skins are irritated in cold weather by the use of soap should try substituting various cleansing mixtures which may be put into the bath water.

One mixture which is liked by many women who possess delicate skins is made from one pound of marshmallow flowers, one-quarter of a pound of hyssop herb and four pounds of bran flour. The ingredients should be thoroughly mixed dry, in a basin, and then about two heaping tablespoonfuls should be put in a bag.

The bags to hold this compound should be made from cheesecloth. They need not be filled with the mixture, for a smaller quantity will be sufficient to soften the water, and the mixture, if too much is used, will be lost, as a bag can be employed only twice.

To get the best results the bag should be in the tub at least half an hour before the bath, and while bathing the little sack should be used as a piece of soap.

Spice Tea Cakes.

Break two eggs into a cup, melt butter size of an egg, put in with eggs, fill cup with milk and turn into mixing dish. Add one cup sugar. Sift three times two small cups flour with one teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful each of allspice, clove and cinnamon, dash of nutmeg and raisins to liking. Bake in gem tins and frost with white frosting made of confectioner's sugar mixed with milk or water. These are fine and light.

Buttermilk Doughnuts.

Put four cups pastry flour into a shallow bowl, sift in one and one-half teaspoonfuls each of soda and cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon and one of salt; add one cup sugar, one egg, unbeaten, and one cup buttermilk (better thick); mix well and proceed as for doughnuts.

Stuffed Rolled Roast.

Wipe two pounds steak cut from the round, three-quarters inch in thickness. Spread with a stuffing prepared with one and one-half cups cracker crumbs, one-quarter cup of butter melted, one-half cup boiling water, salt, pepper and sage. Roll, fasten and bake forty-five minutes.

Oysters a La Creole.

Put into the chafin dish blazer a pint of oysters, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a stalk of celery cut fine and a cupful of cream. When the edges of the oysters begin to cockle, add salt to season and a half cupful of sherry and serve on toast.

Useful Nutpick.

A useful article for the kitchen is a common nutpick. This will be found invaluable in taking the caps off milk and cream bottles.

TROUBLES OF THE TEACHER

Rapid Changes in the Classes and the Yearly Crop of Born Orators Are Discouraging.

On the train from Trenton to New York two men were talking. One of them proved to be a young instructor of Princeton. "How do you like your work?" the other man asked him. "It's not entirely satisfactory," the teacher replied, slowly. "The classes change so rapidly that I hardly get in touch with one group of boys until they pass out of my hands and I have to take charge of a new lot. I have the freshmen, you know—raw and difficult—goats," they are called at West Point—and I just about get them into such shape that I can breathe freely with them when I lose them. The worst of it is," he added, earnestly and sadly, "that every year we get a new crop of born orators. I know how to get along with almost every kind of boy, but when a youth is convinced that he was born to adorn the rostrum he is one of the saddest spectacles the gods provide, and he comes nearer than anything else in the world to making me decide every year that I will give up my job and take to the tall timber."

DISTANCE COVERED IN DANCE

Average Waltz Will Take One Over About Three-Quarters of a Mile of Travel.

Every one has observed that the lady or the beau who objects strenuously to taking any sort of exercise and pleads incapacity to endure strain will dance through a full and exhaustive program, being in this fashion seduced into a most vigorous and under proper conditions beneficial exercise.

It seems that in a normal little dance the parties travel something like 1 1/2 miles and do it in much more strenuous fashion than they would if they calmly set out to walk the same distance. An average waltz takes you over something like three-quarters of a mile and the various old-fashioned square dances are at least half a mile long.

To make dancing beneficial the room should be thoroughly ventilated so that a constant supply of fresh air is available for the over-worked heart.—Chicago Tribune.

TALLEST BRITISH SOLDIER.

Private H. Barter, who has just joined the First battalion Grenadier Guards, is only eighteen years of age, but stands 6 feet 8 1/2 inches in his stockings and is still growing. He is said to be the tallest soldier in the British army.

"My father, who is a Devonshire farmer, is," he says, "6 feet 5 inches, and my mother is 5 feet 10 inches, so I think it must be hereditary. I have lived nearly all my life in the country. I am doing two hours a day in a gymnasium and about three hours drill, so that in a month or two I ought to reach 6 feet 9 1/2 inches. I have smoked since I was fourteen, or I do not know how tall I should have been."

Formerly Major Oswald Ames of the Second Life Guards, who is 6 feet 7 1/2 inches, was said to be the tallest soldier in the army.—London Daily Mail.

BIRTH OF "WALL STREET."

Under a cottonwood tree, standing opposite what is now No. 60 Wall street, 24 independent brokers on May 17, 1791, signed an agreement for uniform rates of commission and thus founded the present New York Stock exchange. It was nearly twenty years later, in 1817, however, that permanent organization was effected. The exchange is not incorporated, being a strictly voluntary association. It has now 1,100 members. In 1909 a membership or seat in the exchange was sold for $96,000, the highest price on record.

"What! Ten years in an office and you've never once been promoted. What kind of a man do you work for?"

"A promoter."—Boston Transcript.

"If there are such things as mermaids, I know what they have for pets."

"What do they have?"

WOULD SPOIL EXPRESSION

Therefore the Photographer Didn't Tell the Customer He Was Sitting on His Hat.

"Look pleasant," said the photographer.

The sitter raised his eyes and gave a sickly smirk.

"Your head just a little bit more to the left, please," suggested the voice from the black shroud. "No,
don't move the eyes."

Like a man suffering from a stiff neck, on an Eiffel tower collar, the sitter tilted his head gingerly till it reached the desired angle, and he resembled a dying fish trying not to mind.

"That's very nice—very nice, indeed," said the photographer. "Stay
just there while I make the exposure." He removed the cap as he spoke and counted out a minute and three-quarters. "Thank you, sir,"
he then observed. "You can get up.
I'm afraid you've been sitting on your hat."

"My hat!" roared the sitter, angrily regarding the flattened felt.
"Why the dickens didn't you tell me
I was sitting on it?"

"My dear sir," protested the photographer, blandly, "that would have spoiled your expression!"—Answers.

HARD LUCK

Mrs. Newpop—Uncle William has just lost all his fortune.

Mr. Newpop—What a pity—and we just named the baby after him
last week.

MARVELS OF MEMORY.

Memory handed down through 30
generations is one of the perplexing facts of science. The beaver flourished along French rivers until killed off for its fur, but is now known only in about a dozen of the villages on the Rhone near Avignon.
For three centuries these villages
have had no trees to cut down for dams. The animals were compelled to adopt a new mode of life and have burrowed in the banks, shaping mud with their tails as usual. Recently some of them were taken by a Polish count to forests on his estates. Very strangely, they resumed the habits dropped three centuries before they were born, and at once began cutting trees and building dams.

DIET AND HEIGHT.

Plutarch, in his life of Lysurgus,
states that the tall figures of the Spartans were due to their spare diet. "For," says he to himself and all the rest of us, says he, "when the animal spirits are not too much oppressed by a great quantity of food, which stretches itself out in breadth and thickness, they mount up in their natural lightness, and
the body easily and freely shoots up in height." Quite a fine compliment to the tall guy, but we will venture to say that Plutarch must have been over five foot eleven inches or he would never say that.

WIRE FOR AEROPLANES.

Wire and cord for aeroplanes are a special development. The wire is made in 12 sizes, with breaking strengths of 2,000 to 175 pounds.
The cords for stays are of a number of fine, strong wires stranded together, their strengths being 2,300
to 1,000 pounds; the flexible cord
for steering gear is of six strands
of seven wires each, around a center
of cotton or wire.

nature than usual?"
"Oh, yes; the dictionary."

GIVES IT TO THEM STRONG

Bernstein, French Dramatist, Makes
Everything in His Plays Violent,
Colossal and Stunning.

M. Bernstein's way is always the way of violence. When love is in question it must be passion at the fiercest, a touch of the wild beast.
When money is in question it must be wealth "beyond the dreams of avarice," or else financial ruin, complete, colossal, and, for choice, criminal.

Well, the policy which the vulgar
call "giving it 'em hot and strong"
is, there is no gainsaying, an excellent policy for the playwright. More than any other art, the art of the theater has resources for thrilling, overwhelming, stunning; and he is the best artist who uses best all the resources of his art. There are such things as still, cool, gray, soothing plays, to be sure, but not in M. Bernstein's theater. As his duchess says (and she has her own wicked reasons for knowing), "In this house
the corridor floors always creak," so we may say that in his theater everything goes crash. When his people do not shriek aloud it is only
because they are dumb with agony.

BROWN BREAD FOR HEALTH

That is Slogan of English Country
Squire and He Will Bake
for Village.

Sir Oswald Mosley, an English
country squire of the old school, has just adopted the role of village
baker at Rolleston, Staffordshire,
where he owns 3,800 acres.

Present-day indigestion and serious decay of the teeth are attributed
by Sir Oswald to fancy white bread.
The decline in the national physique
and especially the prevalence of dental disease, he maintains, are the result of the fact that the people of England for about 30 years, ever since the introduction of white Viennese flour, have discarded the fine old-fashioned whole meal bread. He blames women especially for considering brown bread common; but that prejudice he hopes to eradicate
by showing the practical advantages of whole meal bread.

Sir Oswald is now going to grind
the flour in a stone mill which he has built for the purpose, and homemade whole meal bread will be baked in the village and sold at the same price as that made from ordinary flour.

ARTISTS' BLUNDERS.

"I never saw an artist yet who could correctly paint a horseshoe," remarked a friend of mine, pausing
before a Broadway picture store.

"They invariably paint it with an equal number of nails on each side,
sometimes three, sometimes four,
and even five nails. As a matter of fact there are four on one side and three on the other, the extra nail
being on the inside of the foot,
where the greatest strain comes.

Which reminds me of the lines of a distinguished American poet in which he sweetly depicts the drowsy
cattle on a summer's day lazily lap-
ping the cooling waters of the crystal stream. The same peculiarity is also poetically attributed to the horse and other animals, the model of the poet having probably been the house cat.—From an old scrap book.

HE ALSO FEARED.

Puccini, the noted composer, associated New York with his frankness.

It is narrated of Puccini that, at a reception in Fifth avenue, an aristocratic young woman was asked to sing something of the composer's.
She hesitated at first, but finally she went to the piano.

"I shall sing," she said, "Mimi's
death song in 'La Boheme.'"

Then she turned and looked at Puccini.

"Oh, cher maitre," she said, "I am so afraid I can't sing it!"
"Never mind, madame," said Puccini, coolly; "so am I, too."

GETTING WORSE.

"Tommy had to meet with the board of education yesterday."

"The board? Good gracious!
When I was a boy it was only a switch."

A MISTAKE.

"They say he let for fortune slip
through his fingers."

"They're wrong. He let it run out of a bung-hole."

MADERO GIVES ULTIMATUM

Will Attack Jaurez Unless President Diaz Resigns By This Afternoon

STILL FULL OF FIGHT

Has An Army Of 2,000 Men Ready To Strike The City.

El Paso, Texas, April 21.—Francisco I. Madero, Jr., after a conference with an unofficial peace commission near Juarez yesterday afternoon, declared that the only terms on which he would agree to peace would be that President Diaz resign. If the Mexican President's resignation was not forthcoming by this afternoon at 3 o'clock he would fire on the city of Juarez.

ONE DAY PIKE

Talk of a Movement to Build One Through Hopkinsville.

The movement for the reconstruction of the old Louisville and Nashville turnpike has created interest all over the state, and if it is successful there is little doubt that it will be followed by similar efforts at road building in other sections.

Already the Paducah Sun has suggested an extension of the work from Bowling Green to the metropolis of Jackson's Purchase. The Sun points out that "from Bowling Green to Hopkinsville, traveling the counties of Warren, Logan, Todd and Christian, a route for a pike has been surveyed and already communication exists." Paducah is about 70 miles from Hopkinsville and "from the Tennessee river crossing at Birmingham to Hopkinsville the road is almost an air line, and through McCracken and Marshall and Christian the road is graveled." This leads the Sun to remark that "If the residents along the Paducah-Hopkinsville road would contribute a day's labor, McCracken, Marshall, Lyon, Trigg and Christian counties would be linked with this great inter-state highway by pike, and the 'good roads movement,' about which we all like to talk, would be started with one big thoroughfare a model and an incentive for further development."

Christian county is ready for the movement. In fact its part of the proposed road is already nearly all built and the rest will be.

SHERIFF SUICIDES

Faced A Shortage That Made Him Despondent.

Morganfield, Ky., April 20.—Sheriff J.W. Carter, of Union county, committed suicide in a stable on his place this morning by shooting himself. Death was instant.

In an investigation of his office made recently he was found to be $6,000 short in his accounts and he had been given until tomorrow to make up the deficit.

He was a prominent citizen of this county and is survived by his wife and a large family.

Hopkinsville Tobacco Market.

The weather for hauling this week has been of such a character that exceedingly heavy receipt have been handled. The Loose Floors handling their full capacity and the rehandling houses and factories rushed to the limit.

The condition and order of the tobacco in some cases has given some trouble but on the whole the market has been well sustained and satisfactory prices have been the rule. The market for the week showed about the following prices.

Trash $4.50 to $5.00, Low lug $5.25 to $6.00, Medium lug $6.00 to $7.00, Good lug $7.00 to $8.00, Low leaf $8.50 to $8.50, Medium $8.00 to $10.50, Good $10.50 to $12.50.

Inquiries for prized tobacco are numerous and the stocks will be taken as fast as they can be sampled from present indications.

NEARING THE MEETING'S END

Revival at Christian Church To Close Tuesday Night.

MEETINGS TOMORROW.

Final Illustrated Lecture Tuesday Night on the Passion Play.

THE YEUELL MEETINGS.

TO-DAY.
7:30 p. m.—An Illustrated Lecture on "The Making of New Americans." 200 rare dissolving views will be shown. These are reproductions in colors of fine photos and great paintings. No charge for admission, a silver offering at the door.

TOMORROW.
9:30 a. m.—Mr. Yeuell will speak to the Sunday School.
10:45—Sermon on "The Greatest Name."
3:30 p. m.—Sermon on "The Stars of God."
7:30 p. m.—Sermon on "The Burnt Conscience."
MONDAY.
3:30 p. m.—Sermon on "For or Against."
4:30 p. m.—Baptismal Service.
7:30 p. m.—Sermon on "Not in but Near."

TUESDAY.
7:30 p. m.—Final Lecture on The Passion Play as I Saw it at Oberammergau. Illustrated with almost 200 views made from photos taken by the official photographer of the play and its locality.

Seventy-one persons have come forward since the meetings began. Mr. Yeuell's sermons grow more earnest, more moving and more helpful as the meetings near their close. He is in even better voice than he was at the beginning of this strenuous labor and he is filled with an inexhaustible enthusiasm it seems. The rush of his utterance, the music of his voice, the beauty and simplicity of his rhetoric, his purposeful appeals to the wayward continue to excite the interest and admiration of all who hear him, while those to whom these appeals are directed more especially are profoundly impressed with his spiritual significance.

Mrs. Foster has done her arduous duty as leader of the chorus and one of the chief soloists with fidelity and fine skill. Mrs. Perkins has seconded Mrs. Foster in the matters of solos with much effect. The accompanists are giving of their best and are pleasing greatly those whom they accompany and those who hear them. These are Miss Floy Moore, organist, and Mrs. Gabe Payne, pianist.

Rarely helpful and inspiring services are planned for the remaining days of the meetings.

Announcement of these are made above. All are cordially invited to participate in them.

Of the final lecture Tuesday night it should be said that Mr. Yeuell is rarely qualified to have prepared it by reason not only of his native talents and his life-long and intimate contact with the motives and effects of Christianity, but also of his opportunities of receiving first hand impressions of the play. He conversed with Anton Lang in the latter's own home and with those who played "The Apostles" to Lang's "Christ."

In Loving Memory

Of Mrs. Jewel Garrett.

Again the shadow of death has passed over our circle, and laid his hand upon one of our most beloved sisters. In the death of Mrs. Jewel Garrett we lose one of our most genial, warm hearted and sunny members. Her name was appropriate, for she was surely a Jewel, reflecting light all about her. She was always glad to welcome us to her home with a gracious and cordial hospitality, and we shall ever miss her bright face from our circle. It was her pleasure to help in every good work. We extend to her bereaved family our sincerest love and truest sympathy. May the great Comforter, who alone can heal broken hearts, be near them in this sad hour. Done by order of W. M. Society, Salem church.
